SAVE TOLLCROSS PARK

ONCE AGAIN IT IS THE ORDINARY WORKING CLASS PEOPLE ~~THAT~~ ARE BEING CONNED. THE ONLY ATTRACTIVE ASSET THAT THE PEOPLE OF TOLLCROSS HAVE GOT, NAMELY THEIR PARK, IS BEING VANDALISED TO SUIT THE CAPITAL RECEIPTS OF GROUP LEADER JEAN M'FADDEN. THE PROPOSAL TO SLICE OFF MOST OF THE PART OF THE PARK THAT IS PARALLEL TO WELLSHOT ROAD WHICH WILL BE THE NEW REPLACEMENT FOR THE SHETTLESTON BATHS. THIS PROPOSAL ON THE GROUNDS THAT THERE IS NO ALTERNATIVE SITES IS A JOKE IF THERE IS ONE THING THAT ABOUNDS IN THE EAST-END OF GLASGOW IS DERELICT GROUND, THINK OF THE FIRMS THAT HAVE BEEN CLOSED IN THE LAST

That your family and your environment are fundemental to your development into manhood and your social in society goes without saying. My paternal grand parents came from the north of Ireland in the 1850s they came from working class stock and the collapse of the agrarian economy and the potato famine forced them to flee. My maternal grandparents family came from the north of Scotland much earlier fleeing from the highland clearances so the roots of my working class background was deeply entrenched.

My grandparents while they were dead before I was born did own or operated a fish and chip shop I dont think they were tycoons as the two girls and three sons that made up their family the only one that did not take up a manual job was my uncle Hugh whom I am apparently called after.There shop was in French St. right in the heart of the cotton mills our family stayed in Solway Street just round the corner and my eldest sister Peggy started work in her first job as a trainee weaver. My mother of course had been a weaver all her life, my fathers two sisters Mary and Agnes were also weavers as well as my mother's sister Jean so my affinity to weavers is well and truly based.

While my father kept in touch with his family from time to time and he usually took me along to the nice corporation house in Riddrie I thought that anyone who had a garden lived in a palace as the nearest grass we seen was the Glasgow green ½ a mile away. My mother never came as she never went anywhere with my father although she did feel that my auntie Agnes was a bit of a snob. My dads eldest sister Mary stayed in the house and she was a very nice person, she was a mistress in Strang's mill in Greenhead Street.Auntie Mary was a regular visitor at our house in 118 Bernard Street and she never missed giving all of us a penny. It was a different situation when I was taken along to my Uncle Hugh's house who also stayed in Riddrie even as a young child I can still remember the frosty atmosphere you were hardly allowed to leave your chair and I doe not recall ever being spoken to by neither my aunt or uncle or any of his children.

Low People In High Places.

In the beginning it was called the Bank of Commerce and Credit International, at the end it was dubbed the Bank of Criminals, Crooks and Imposters. This is the Bank that always said yes; to drug barons, yes to arms, yes to corrupt politicians,and yes to the C.I.A..

Maxwell was not in the same league, when it came to grand larceny. Billions of dollars collected in deposits then looted by the "Directors". Saddam Hussein got his whack as did Noriega from the Panama, B.C.C.I. bankrolled the leaders of the all powerful. Medalin drug cartel, also Abu Nidal top man in terrorism. Founder of BCCI was Agha Hasan Abedi who hailed from the land of opium growing Pakistan, his enterprise was backed by the Sheikhs from the United Arab Emirates. President Clinton when a state governor recieved heavy backing from BCCI frontman Jackson Stephens an Arkansas investment Banker. Jesses Jackson negro politician was courted by BCCI to the extent of eleven thousand dollars travelling expenses. On one occasion Jackson sat down to dinner with Abedi, and thought nothing of it.

BCCI looked from big things from their U.K. operations, by 1977 boasted forty branchs in the U.K. Here it was more than a bank Limmos,prostitutes, and rent boys were at the service of their of affluent clients. On a global scale at this time had twenty one branchs in thirty seven countries. When the present Lord Callaghan was Prime Minister he would often speak of the special relationship between Britain and America. This was a doubtful conjecture, what was not in doubt was his relationship with President Carter and BCCI. It was Carter who introduced Callaghan to godfather Abedi.Callaghan supported a number of causes, his pet one beingthe Cambridge University Commonwealth Trust of whch he was a Trustee. A substantial donation was most greatfully recieved from BCCI.

The seduction of Sunny Jim did not stop there BCCI hired him as an adviser paying him some of his foreign travel expenses. Chief financial officer for the "Bank" Masser Rahman was to recall, it was only to be expected that some members of Parliament would be attracted to and lured by the "Abedi Charm" Two conservative M.Ps. became paid advisers for BCCI, Sir Julian Ridsdale and Sir Julian Amery, Sir Frederick Bennett a former tory M.P. was honorary director of BCCI"s Hong Kong subsidiary, for his trouble he recieved ten thousand dollars per year. BCCI. got close to Thatcher through one of its clients, Nazmu Virani was an ethnic Asian who had settled in Britain.He created a vast property and leisure development group called "Central Securities" at one tiome he was reputed to be one of the richest people in thgis country. Thatcher got quite carried away, seeing Virani as proof of her beliefs,along with Norman Tebbitt she had several meetings with Virani,who had become a fervent supporter of the Tory party giving them

Long Live Mob Rule

All the tabloids from Maxwells Daily Record to Murdoch's Sun and Sunday Times to the Evening Times to the Glasgow Herald had a field day slagging the successful Anti polltax rally against the first attempt to hold a warrant sale in Glasgow. They really plumbed the depths when they described a very representive and peacful crowd as an unruly mob. Of course this is par for the course on the part of the media they have a vested interest in ensuring that any opposition to blatent unfair polocies like the Poll tax whose aim is to switch the burden of local taxation from the rich to the very poor, is confined within the apparatus of the system.

Obey the capitalist law, use the coursts, listen to your elected representitive local or national, in the meantime Regional Councillor and leader Mr Gray has called for tougher action by the police similar to what they carried out during the miners strike. How can a peice of garbage like Gray represent the working class. Unfortunately he is not alone, accross the board labour councillors, M.Ps. trade union officials are involved in the biggest betrayal of working class interest since 1926 general strike. They claim credit for the defeat of the poll tax yet condemn the non-payment campaign and the non-payers and discipline anyone who openly suppott it be they M.Ps. or councillors.

They welcome mass action in Eastern Europe and Russia, be it strikes or massive street demonstrations 'its alright as lo g as it leads to stability' says Kinnoch, Thatcher says it must carry on 'as long as leads to a market ecenomy. They should be reminded that over a hundred years ago the workers and peasants stormed the Bastille in Paris and set up the Paris Commune long before the Russiah 1917 revolution. In mass demonstrations during the second world war, workers or were they mob stormed the Glasgow City Chambers and changed the face of British politics for a decade.

But now our leaders have arrived they are welcomed in the corridors of powere. so it was not unexpected to see the manipulation of the T.U.C. and Labour party conference with the whole set up being stage managed to ensure it would not interfere with the leaders career prospects and embarress arch Thatcherites like Lord King of British Airways who appeared quite at home when he strolled through the Labour Party conference at Brighton.

Long Live Mob Rule.

It is not without significance that Kinnoch also met Professor Roland Smith that doyen of the financial world who manipulates take overs with thousands of workers jobs on the line. Was Professor Smith trying to ensure that our capilists eceonomy was safe in a future Labour Govermonts hands.

The present economic slump is not of the workers making, it never is, but despite Kinnochs promises as usual it is always the poorest section of society that will have to bear the cost of reviving the weakest capitalist ecenomy in Europe. We have had six labour goverments in Britain and it is the workers that are always asked to make sacrifices by accepting wage cuts, unemployment, social service cuts on the pensioners the sick and the ponr.

The only real guarentee that there will be no more sellouts take place again is that we do not put our faith in leaders who are not with us on the the streets . As the workers of Eastern Europe have found out the streets are the real birth place of democracy.
